

Give me your eyes, I need sunshine

Give me your eyes, I need sunshine

Your blood, your bones

Your voice, and your ghost

We've both been very brave

Walk around with both legs

Fight for the scary day

We both pull the tricks out of our sleeves, but

I'll believe in anything

And you'll believe in anything

I said, I'll believe in anything

And you'll believe in anything

If I could get the fire out from the wire

I'd share a life and you'd share a life

If I could take the fire out from the wire

I'd share a life and you'd share a life

If I could take the fire out from the water

I'd take you where nobody knows you, and

Nobody gives a damn

I said, nobody knows you, and

Nobody gives a damn

And I could take another hit for you

And I could take away your trips from you

And I could take away the salt from your eyes

And take away what's been assaulting you

And I could give you my apologies

By handing over all the olive trees

And I could take away your shaking knees

And I could give you all the olive trees

Oh, look at the trees, and look at my face

And look at a place, far away from here

So give me your eyes, I need sunshine

Give me your eyes, I need sunshine

Your blood, your bones

Your voice, and your ghost

We've both been very brave
Walk around with both legs
Fight for the scary day we both pull the tricks out of our sleeves, but I'll believe in anything, and
You'll believe in anything

If I could take the fire out from the wire
I'd share a life and you'd share a life
If I could take the fire out from the wire
I'd share a life and you'd share a life
If I could take the fire out from the wire
I'd take you where nobody knows you, and
Nobody gives a damn
I said, nobody knows you, and
Nobody gives a damn
I said, nobody knows you
And nobody gives a damn either way

About your blood, your bones
Your voice, and your ghost
Because nobody knows ya
And nobody gives a damn either way

You know that I'll believe in anything
And you'll believe in anything
Because nobody knows you
And nobody gives a damn either way

